

CV Ghassan El Masri

Before joining BaFID (i.e., Bavarian Research Center for Interreligious Discourses) at Friedrich-Alexander Universität, Erlangen-Nürnberg, Ghassan El Masri worked as deputy head of the institute at the Seminar for Arabic Studies at Free University of Berlin. Before that he led the DFG research project “From Devastation to Resurrection” at the Berlin-Brandenburg Academy of Sciences and Humanities in Potsdam. His main scholarly interest is the Qur’an in its literary and historical contexts on the one hand and its role in Islamic religion and theology on the other hand. He also focuses on the interplay between politics and theology in modern Arab and Middle Eastern spaces.

Official Website: <https://www.orientalistik.phil.fau.de/person/dr-ghassan-el-masri/>

Publication List:

- El Masri, Ghassan. 2020. The semantics of qur’anic language: al-Āḥira.
- El Masri, Ghassan. 2016. “Ma’ sal: what the ṭalal would tell us” in New directions in Quranic Studies, M. Sells and A. Neuwirth (eds.), New York: Routledge.
- El Masri, Ghassan. 2017. “The Qur’ān and the Character of Early Arabic Poetry”, in Quran and Adab, Nuha Shaar (ed.), Oxford University Press.